Outdoor Truths
by Gary Miller

There's nothing like the sound of a gobble at daylight. If you're close enough, it seems that it reverberates throughout the hollows and ridges. It will truly make you wide awake like nothing else. The method most of us use to cause a tom to gobble is by using some kind of shock call. For you non-turkey hunters a shock call is simply a loud noise that is made that causes a gobbler to react to the sound by gobbling. There are also other calls that are used like an owl hoot. I'm not totally sure but I think that the turkey despises the old hoot owl so much that when they hear one they just fuss back at it by gobbling. But whether you shock one or owl hoot or crow call, the results are the same; a turkey is located. It seems to me that the old gobbler is a cantankerous bird. When something unexpected happens, he fusses. When some other creature wants to sing out, he fusses. When something is different or interrupts his normal routine, he fusses. But what he doesn't realize is that by his responses and reactions he lets everyone know where he is. And in turkey hunting that's good for the hunter and not good for him. He sort of reminds me of some people I know. They are fine when everything goes their way and when everything is as it should be, and when there are no unexpected interruptions or unplanned circumstances. But when something happens that is out of the ordinary, they fuss and complain. It may be the clerk at the grocery store who smashes his bread or the waitress at the restaurant who gets his order wrong, but again, the results are the same. What he doesn't realize is that by his actions he is letting everyone know where he is. He is telling the world around him that what you see might not be what you get. He is telling everyone what is really inside. I think he forgets about his own imperfections and his own mental lapses. He seems to demand more from others than he does from himself. I hope you're not that way because the true test of Christian character is not how we act during the expected but how we react when we are shocked by the unexpected.

Collateral Damages?

Damages done to people that are harmed because they are near the intended target. If in Iraq, Afghanistan, or Pakistan the target hides in collaterals we cant determine what or who the target is. We don't want to harm them but the targets don't care if they are harmed. As in Palestine and Gaza the Ghadi used children and hospitals to hide them. While firing into Israel at anything they could kill to damage. When Israel attacked them back they complained about collateral damages. It didn't matter to them who they killed or even hid behind. During Clinton administration we had Bin Laden in our sights but didn't fire on him because there were news people all around him. If it had been the opposite and he had a chance to kill a general or anyone else do you suppose he would have cared about the news crews? Do they care now? If they did would they sort out the people they would kill? The difference is we do, they don't. The Islam Radicals and Muslim terrorist that Obama wont identify, count on collaterals to increase their dead count that will give them more credit and favor by Allah. We need to send more of them to see Allah even if they haven't got a big score. If we are not at war with Islam why don't they do something to stop the radicals? Do something or no support or foreign aid from the USA. Period, period, period. (606)847-9690.

Becker's Hospital Review names Adventist Health System, which includes Mancheter Memoria Hospital among "150 Great Places to work in Healtcare!:

Adventist Health System, which includes Manchester Memorial Hospital (MMH), has been recognized for being a great place to work in health care by Becker's Hospital Review.

"We are honored to be recognized as a great place to work in health care. Employee engagement is a top priority for our organization and we understand the importance of fostering an engaged workplace that allows each employee the opportunity to extend the healing ministry of Christ to the patients we serve," said Erika Skula, CEO. The health care organizations on the list were selected by the Becker's Hospital Review editorial team based on workforce-centric awards received, benefits offerings, wellness initiatives, and efforts to improve professional development, diversity and inclusion, work-life balance and a sense of community and unity among employees.

In honoring Adventist Health System, Becker's Hospital Review noted that "the system offers a tuition reimbursement program, employee wellness programs, company-paid flu shots on campus, and cafés with healthy menu options, among other benefits."

Becker's Hospital Review also noted that Adventist Health System is a four-time consecutive winner of Gallup's Great Workplace Award for creating an engaged workplace.

"All young children need and deserve high-quality, early learning experiences that will prepare them for life, and we have a great opportunity to do our part to help young children," says Jennifer Bryant, Council Chairperson and Early Childhood Specialist with Berea College Promise Neighborhood. "Week of the Young Child is a time for all of us to recognize that early years are learning years for all young children." Week of the Young Child, sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), is an opportunity for early childhood programs across the country, including child care and Head Start programs, preschools and elementary schools, to hold activities to bring awareness to the needs of young children. On Saturday, April 11, the United 4 Kids Early Childhood Council is sponsoring KidsFest at the Owsley County Public Library for Children eight years old and younger and their parents. Sessions will focus on reducing family stress by incorporating play into the lives of children and their families. KidsFest will start at 10 a.m. and end at 1 p.m. For more information please call the Owsley County office of Berea College Promise Neighborhood at (606) 593-7380. Young children and their families depend on high-quality education and care, which help children get a great start and bring lasting benefits to our community. Week of the Young Child is a time to recognize the importance of early learning and early literacy, and to celebrate the teachers and policies that bring early childhood education to young children.

CELEBRATING 27 YEARS OF BUSINESS

A Simple Man

by Margaret Faye Hensley

Column # 123

As Clarence sat looking at his military pictures he remembered a time when his sergeant called him over to discuss an upcoming mission. Clarence was honored that his superior would consult him on an issue of importance. The only picture he had of his sergeant was taken right after they had the discussion. Buck had taken the picture and the sergeant and Clarence were shirtless and looked so young. His sergeant wanted his opinion on how many men he should risk to send out for a search mission. Until that moment, Clarence had not thought much about how his superiors arrived at their decisions. Clarence gave his thoughts on the matter and his sergeant said he agreed with him on his assessment of the situation. One month later his sergeant was transferred to a new unit and Clarence was promoted to sergeant. He hated to see the sergeant leave but that was the way it went, and he had new responsibilities to attend to. He had been fortunate to meet up with his old sergeant at a few reunions and Clarence was saddened when he got a call twenty years earlier informing him of his sergeant's death. He and Buck had attended that funeral and the sergeant's family was very honored that they had come. He and Buck had flown in for a couple of days to attend the funeral together. They stayed in the same hotel room and told stories about their sergeant. That was the last time they were together. They had been talking on the phone every Monday for the last twenty years. They had agreed when they parted ways after the funeral that they would keep in touch weekly. Clarence couldn't remember a Monday that they missed. If you live long enough, it becomes obvious that it is not humanly possible to slow down or stop time from passing. One could choose to accept that truth or fight it and waste precious time. It wasted too much time to wish you could get days and years of your life back. Memories were wonderful and precious to have, but you cannot relive them again. You have to leave them in the past. It is a choice to live in the present and look forward to the future to come. Clarence had wanted to have some special time with his daughters and make new memories for them to look back upon. He did not have any huge plans to accomplish with their visits, but he just wanted to revisit some places and enjoy the simple things of life together. He had learned if you sit and become idle, basically watching the clock tick, you were wasting those ticks of the clock. He had a POD (plan of the day) for each day he woke up. It had helped him to write down on a small card what he wanted to do with the new day. Today he was enjoying old pictures and looking forward to hearing Jake sing.

The mighty American Chestnut Tree was once one of the most important trees in the US forests. In the 1900's over 188 million acres of forests were affected by the loss of the American Chestnut. Currently, there are efforts in Kentucky and surrounding states to restore this tree species. Owsley County Schools have partnered with members of The American Chestnut Tree Foundation (TACF) to create an educational stand of these trees. On Thursday April 2, 2015 students enrolled in Ms. Candrea Bingham's Agriscience class and members of the Owsley County Youth Working Group partnered with members of TACF to plant ten American Chestnut trees that will serve as an educational plot located on the Owsley County School Farm. Prior to the planting students researched the history and importance of the American Chestnut Tree, but the learning will not end with the planting. Students enrolled in agriculture classes as well as science classes at OCHS will be conducting studies on the trees related to genetics, growth rates, and factors affecting growth of the trees. Thank you to TACF members Rex Mann, Lynn Garrison, Danny Barrett, and Robert Cornett. This was a great project allowing OCHS students to plant a piece of history.

OCHS sophomore Tommy Gibson breaks ground for the first of ten chestnut trees.

PRTC Awards $10,000 Economic Development Grant

McKee, KY – The Jackson County Cattlemen's Association (JCCA) received a $10,000 economic development grant from Peoples Rural Telephone Cooperative (PRTC) to support its farm equipment rental program. "PRTC is honored to make this $10,000 grant to assist with the purchase of farming equipment that can be rented by local farmers," said PRTC General Manager, Keith Gabbard. The JCCA rents much needed equipment to local area farmers who may not be able to otherwise afford that machinery. The JCCA polled its members and other area cattle producers and determined a lime spreader was the most needed to improve productivity.

In addition, the JCCA plans to use some of the grant funds to offset the cost of outfitting a trailer that will be used to conduct meetings, cook at events and provide outreach services throughout the year. Local farmers interested in renting farm equipment are encouraged to contact the JCCA. Serving this community since 1950, PRTC continues to make technological advancements that assist in the overall economic development of Jackson and Owsley Counties as well as providing its subscribers with advanced communications services. PRTC offers telephone, broadband and high definition television services across its fiber to the premise network that reaches everyone in the PRTC service area. As the largest cattle producing state east of the Mississippi River, Kentucky is home to over 1.1 million beef cows and ranks 5th nationally in total number of farms. The Jackson County Cattlemen's Association is a grassroots organization that works to protect, advance and be a strong voice for area's cattle producers. For more information or to inquire about equipment rental, please contact the JCCA or the Jackson County Extension Service at (606) 287-7693.

April is Fair Housing Month

Kentucky River Community Care reminds everyone that April is National Fair Housing Month and commemorates the 47 year anniversary of the Fair Housing Act of 1968.

Housing is a basic human need. Having a home instills a sense of safety and security. Our mission at Kentucky River Community Care is to provide safe, quality, affordable housing opportunities, and we are committed to our mission. Our core values guide our work, as we believe that everyone deserves to have a safe place to live and that everyone has a right to fair housing, free from discrimi nation

The Fair Housing Act was introduced as a component of the Civil Rights Act of 1968. The act provides equal opportunity to all who buy, sell, rent, finance, or insure housing. In a nutshell, the act protects each individual’s basic right to choose where to live and ensures equal treatment after obtaining housing.

The Fair Housing Act prohibits discrimination in housing based on race, color, national origin, or religion. The Kentucky General Assembly later broad ened the law to prohibit discrimination in housing based on disability, gender, and familial status.

On February 3, 2012, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Develop ment (HUD) issued a final rule that prohibits discrimination on the basis of actual or perceived sexual orientation, gender identity, or marital status in regards to housing programs assisted by HUD or subject to a mortgage insured by the Fed eral Housing Administration.
